

CULTURE > THEATRE

Vault Festival 2020: The best theatre shows to see at London's biggest arts festival

By Zoe Paskett | 17 January 2020

We can finally get out of that start-of-year funk, because Vault Festival is back in town.

Over the next eight weeks, performers from across genres descend on the Waterloo arches for the city's biggest arts festival and this year, it's bigger than ever.

You've got more than 500 shows from 2,700 artists to choose from, so we wouldn't blame you for feeling paralysed by indecision. That's what we're here for.

We've chosen some of the theatre shows we're most excited about seeing.

March 17-19

Invisibles

Argentinian writer Lola Lagos presents the world premiere of a story about two women, imprisoned but never losing their spirit. Sandra and Marisa dance and laugh their way through abuse and violence, always dreaming of a better life.

March 17-22

Vault Festival runs from January 28-March 22. For tickets and full programme go to, vaultfestival.com

ADVERTISEMENT

Trending

- 1 Keir Starmer says Labour has lost the trust of working people
- 2 Local elections 2021: When will we know the results?
- 3 East London fire: More than 40 require treatment at tower block blaze